Xtra Text and Image Boxes

This theme contains heavy use of xtra text and image boxes to create a variety of text columns and thumbnail layouts. Wherever you see the "Lorem ipsum" text, this is an xtra text box. You can input your own text from within the Layout window. You may also need to make adjustments to the height of the xtra text boxes to make them align with the main text box.

Thumbnails with Xtra Image Boxes for Picture Frames

Thumbnails that use a variety of different picture frames (xtra image boxes) in the same template, will be non-clickable images, with the exception of thumbnails that have a regular picture frame around them.

Floating Photos & Text template

If your text content is taller than the two xtra text boxes (blue and darker green), you should increase the height of both of these boxes, or at least the dark green box, to be the same as the main text box – this will maintain the intended look of this template's layout.

Small Album & Text template

The thumbnail captions that are placed to the right side of each thumbnail were created using an xtra text box. You will need to input your own caption text for these four thumbnails from within the Layout window. You can make it the exact same caption text as you did in the Content window or make it something different, it is up to you. The slideshow view will show the caption that you input in the Content window.

The right text column is an xtra text box that may need adjustments to the height depending on how high your main text content box is. If your main text content box is higher than the xtra text column, it will wrap around the bottom of the xtra text column, spoiling the look of this layout. If you simply increase the height of the xtra text box, it will keep your main text content pushed to the left in a nice neat column.

Thumbnail Album template

The image that is placed across the top of the page is an xtra image box. Drag and drop your own photo or graphic into the image well from within the Layout window.
